What should my camper bring to camp each day?

Prior to the start of camp, you will receive notification with details about what your camper should bring and wear to camp. In general, be prepared to send your camper with the following:

What to bring:

- A morning snack, lunch (full-day camp only) and afternoon snack (full-day camp only)
- Water bottle with a secure, non-leaking cap

- Backpack
- Change of clothes (just in case)
- Towel
- Shoes/sandals for the creek

What to wear:

- Closed-toed shoes
- A hat
- Sunscreen already applied
- Insect repellent applied to outside of clothing
- Clothes for the weather (camp takes place rain or shine, so please make sure your child has appropriate clothing)

Are lunch or snacks provided for campers?

No. All campers must bring their own snacks (half-day camp) and lunch and two snacks (full-day camp) each day camp is in session. Please ensure your camper has enough food and at least one appropriately-sized water bottle for full, physically active days in the outdoors.

My camper has food allergies. Can they participate in camp?

Yes! Be advised that Warner Park Nature Center is not a nut-free facility and does not prevent campers from bringing lunches or snacks containing common food allergens. Campers will eat lunch and snacks outdoors and can be spaced out appropriately if allergies are a concern. Campers will wash hands or use hand sanitizer before and after every meal. If your camper has an Epi-Pen for any food or environmental allergies, they must carry it on their person at all times.

Who will be responsible for my camper during a camp program?

All Warner Park Nature Center summer camps are led by trained educators and naturalists. All education staff undergo background checks during the interview process. Campers will always be under the supervision of a member of Warner Park Nature Center's environmental education team, with enough freedom for free play and exploration while ensuring all campers' safety and well-being. All camp staff are First Aid and CPR certified and are trained in outdoor safety and group management strategies.
